

Philosophy and General Principles

- a. The Library Board in its Circulation Policy tries to balance the Library's purpose of supplying information, with the need to monitor and retrieve Library materials. The Board seeks to put as few restrictions on the flow of information as possible, while protecting the community's Library resources.
- b. Library services will be available without discrimination to the individuals and groups of every age, set of beliefs, sex, gender, race, color, sexual orientation, philosophy, and human condition.
- c. The Library Bill of Rights and other intellectual freedom documents reprinted in the Library's "Materials Selection Policy" shall govern the circulation, as well as, the selection of Library materials. Special attention is called to the statements on "Free Access to Libraries for Minors", "Restricted Access to Library Materials", and "Circulation of Motion Pictures and Video Procedures". Texts of these statements are appended to the Materials Selection Policy. The Confidentiality of Library Records shall govern the privacy of Library customers' circulation records.
